Remote and Rural Dementia Care

Policy, Research and Practice

Edited by Anthea Innes, University of Salford, Debra Morgan, University of Saskatchewan and Jane Farmer, Swinburne University of Technology

"A cutting-edge resource that brings together the latest research and practice evidence on dementia-related needs, support and care in rural and remote settings worldwide."

Catherine Hagan Hennessy, University of Stirling

As the number of people affected by dementia continues to rise, this is the first in-depth examination of related services dedicated to the unique demands of remote and rural settings.

Contributors from the UK, Australia, North America and Europe explore the experiences and requirements of those living with dementia and those caring for them in personal and professional capacities in challenging geographical locations.

For practitioners, researchers, academics and policy makers, this book is an essential review of evidence and strategies to date, and a guide to future research needs and opportunities for improvements in rural dementia practice.
